Setting a Good Example

You came to us as a teacher, helping us to become aware of the world
by asking us to experience it.
Because you were willing to help us understand and overcome our disappointments and disillusion, we were eager to share and to celebrate with you
our triumphs and our dreams.
Though we leave now,
we take with us memories of a unique friendship, knowing that we go with your love and support;
with our greatest appreciation,
We thank you,

The Class of 1985

A Step in the Right Direction

As we begin our school years, we enter a long road whose end is far off in the horizon and barely visible. When we first enter the road, we're not sure what to expect although we've heard others' experiences. After traveling a few days, though, we find that the road is not as bad as we feared.

The elementary years are spent learning the basic things necessary for the rest of the journey. But not all the time is spent learning; there is also time for art projects, games, and field trips.

After we pass through the milestones of elementary school, the road leads to jr. high. Once again, the road is unfamiliar, and we're not sure what is going to happen. Up until now our journey has been spent on one side of the school building, and now we are on the other side. Instead of staying in one room with one teacher, we now have several rooms and teachers.

The road continues, passing by the milestones of jr. high. The road is more familiar now and the end is in view. Our journey isn't easy, though, because our schedules are fuller. Sports practice, club meetings, and other extracurricular activities fill up our after-school time, as well as the homework.

The road through high school has its advantages. We're able to choose our classes, play on the varsity teams, be elected to a club office — to name a few.

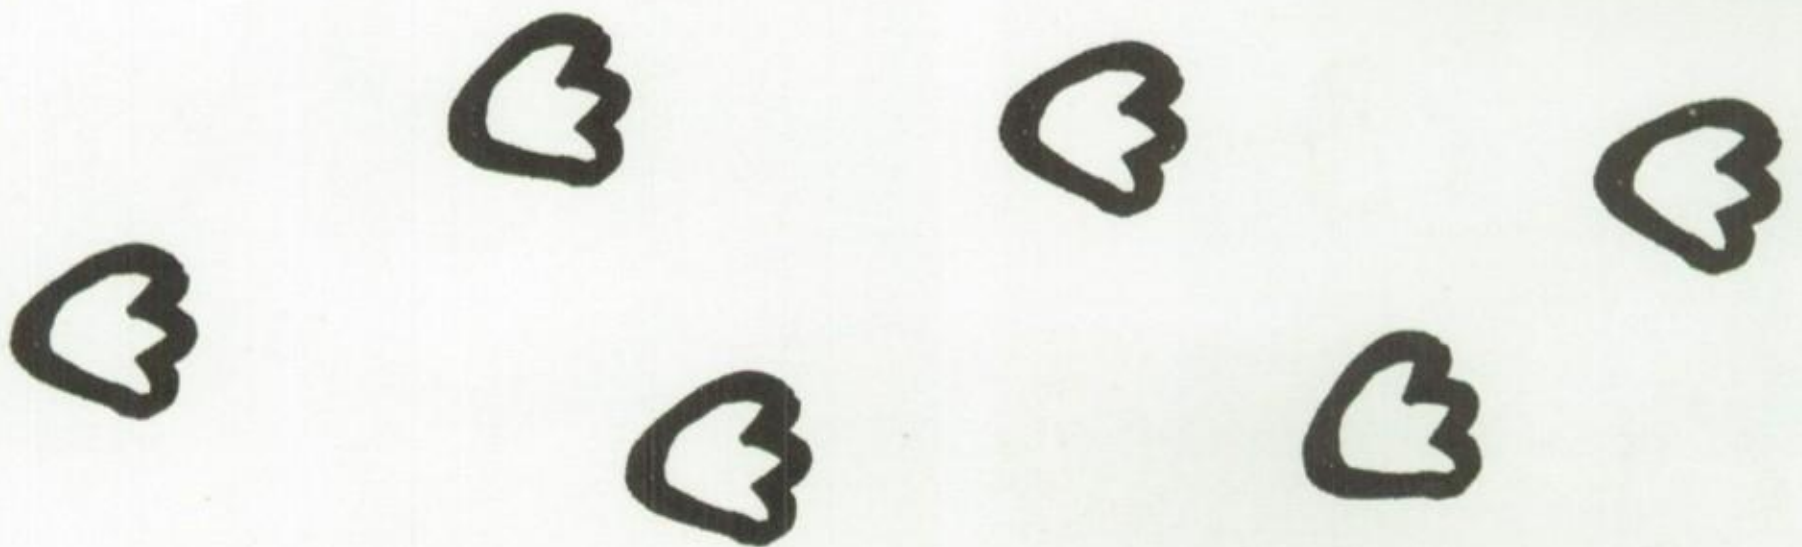

When the road reaches "Senior Territory" we sometimes feel we have reached our destination. But the road doesn't end as soon as we reach the territory, it continues further.

The journey through twelfth grade is probably the busiest but the most enjoyable. There are many senior activities that take up some of our time as well as extracurricular activities we participated in previous years. Some of us may participate in more things because it is our "last chance" to do things. But whatever we do, our journey continues until we reach our final destination.

PEOPLE

AT P.H.S.

Administration & Faculty

Hello, I am an S.A.S. comfort shoe, and my owner is a little old lady teacher at Phillips High School. I really have a good life. Mrs. X smells nice and she doesn't weigh much, but I sometimes suffer from boredom. I wanted to grow up and be a glamorous shoe like an evening pump, or even something cool like a jelly, but here I am — the "sensible shoe." I guess I didn't have a chance; my grandmother was a high button shoe worn by a teacher who taught chemistry for fifty-two years in the public schools of Texas.

My days are spent walking up and down aisles of students, and standing at the speaker's stand listening to Mrs. X lecture. I must be the world's smartest shoe. None of the other shoes like me. I would love to give one of those cute Spot Bilts a playful little kick as I walk by him in the aisles, but Mrs. X would just die! Oh, how I long to touch those long dangling shoelaces of the maroon and gray Nike's in third hour, but he never even looks at me, and I always face straight ahead as I walk by him. The kids and shoes here seem to think that I am just a part of Mrs. X. They don't know that the shoes on her dignified feet long to break loose and boogie!

Like I said earlier, I really don't have a bad life. Mrs. X loves me. In fact, I'm her favorite shoes. The kids get mad at her when she makes them get rid of their gum, but that makes me happy. Ugh! You just don't know how awful it is to have someone's germy old gum smeared all over your bottom. She keeps me brushed, and polished, and goes out of her way to keep me out of mud and water. At night she places me gently in a clean, warm closet shelf that smells like lavender. You know, glamour shoes don't live very long lives. I guess that sometimes it's better to be sensible than sensational!

Seniors

Hello boys and girls, I'm Billy Bob the boat shoe. To-day, I am going to tell you about my life. You see, I really hate my owner. He thinks that he is such a stud. His name is Mickey. With him, I don't lead an exciting life at all. Everytime we go over to his girlfriend's house he always takes me off and just chunks me anywhere. Then, I have to sit there all night and watch him and her play their little games until he gets ready to leave. When he wears me to school, all the girls in English class stare at me and laugh. Actually, I don't think that they're laughing at me at all, I think they're really laughing at Mickey's puny, white feet.

Mickey never wears any socks with me and it is very uncomfortable. When he sweats, you better watch out because I will really begin to stink.

On the weekends, when we come home from partying, we go straight to the bathroom so Mickey can get sick. Then, we go to bed. Sometimes, he forgets to take me off and I get to sleep in the bed with him. But, when he does take me off, he just throws me in a pile with all of my other abused shoe friends. I'm starting to look raggedy now, but that's because he doesn't love me anymore. One of these days, he's going to go out and buy a new pair and just forget all about me. I really will be praying for the next pair of boat shoes that come along. Good luck to all of my fellow shoes.

Well, boys and girls, that's the end of my story and let me say just one more thing now. Be very careful that you are just a plain ole' person and not a pair of Mickey's shoes.

Look at That Baby Face

Hi! I'm Bobbi the baby bootie. My owner is Brandi Brooks. I live a simple life, compared to other shoes I have met. I hardly go anywhere. I stay neat and clean. You might say I live a life of leisure. I sleep most of the time except when Brandi is hungry and throws a fit. Then, I just have to bear with it and withstand a little pain when she kicks. I really can't complain much, though. Sometimes I get terribly irritated at Brandi, she throws these wild screaming fits and I get so awfully upset. My ears start ringing and I just can't handle it. I'm a delicate thing; I shouldn't have to put up with this. At night my life is peaceful. I sleep by the night light and listen to Brandi's carousels play lullabies. I really do like being Bobbi the baby bootie.

Hi dudes, I'm Van! One of the latest fashions your kids beg for. This is my life story. I was very content with my department store life, setting on a rack with all my buddies. We didn't have a care in the world. This was great until one day I was had! This nice little brat went and bought me. My friends were gone forever. I decided then and there it was my duty to protect those size six feet. I was very dependable; I made it to every breakin contest in town. After all of this wear and tear, my soles were running short, and my tongue was about to fall out of me. I really worked hard to keep those feet out of the places they should not have been. One day I was replaced by one of my old rack pals. His name was Nike. When Nike got there everything was down hill. I was sent to be incinerated. My life flashed before my checks, as my souls burned.

Hello! Melzora is my name. I am what many people call a jelly shoe. I'm definitely a different type of shoe. When I first came out, people didn't know what to think of me. Then I started to become popular; I became a fad. I'd seemed to last longer than most fads though. I'm able to be worn with almost anything, and I come in a wide variety of colors. People can almost wear me anywhere too. They can wear me on the beach, in the shower, and dancing, going shopping, or just as plain everyday shoes. Most boys think I look very neat and pretty on girls. I'm mainly used in the summer and spring because in the fall and winter I'm not able to keep the girls' feet warm. Since I have told you so much about me. Please help me stay popular in today's market and buy me.

HiHo! Kae here. You know, Kae Pa. You wouldn't believe what the life of a shoe is like. I fortunately, hit it off lucky. I got a very beautiful owner. When we met, it was . . . love at first sight. Suzy, that's my owner, came strolling into the Foot Locker, my previous home, and it was love at first sight. I took one look at her feet, and I knew they were the only feet for me. She came waltzing over to my rack and picked me up. She turned me over a few times and checked out my laces. The dictator, which just happens to own the place, requested that she try me on to check for size. She slipped me on and I went crazy! Her feet felt wonderful. She tied the laces and took a few steps. I knew she felt the same about me as I did her. I could tell by the way she was jogging around the store, hopping up and down, and admiring me in the mirror. She begged her mother to let her take me home. After I was paid for, she wrapped me up and headed for the car. As soon as we got to the car, she immediately put me on. That night, we went dancing! I met a lot of new shoes. They weren't nearly as classy as I. The other shoes were jealous. Their owners were asking Suzy where I came from. We were both proud. The next day all of Suzy's friends rushed out and took all of my relatives home with them. Now none of the Pa family will have to live under the strict rule of the dictator. Suzy saved my family!

Howdy partner! My name is Duke. I'm a size fifteen and a half. My owner is a very big and fat person. His name is Eugene. He is as dumb as his name sounds. Eugene never takes good care of me. My face is always scuffed up, and my sole is about to fall off. I'm a cowboy boot if you didn't know, you ole cow pokes. Eugene wears me most of the time when he works. I go with him to round up the heifers, and brand 'em. I also get to go out in the pasture, but stupid Eugene never watches where he goes, and I land in a couple of cowpatties. Maybe that is why he wears me mostly to work. Sometimes Eugene is nice enough to take me outside and hose me down. After he hoses me down, if I'm lucky, Eugene might take me square dancing? I usually have a great time except when Eugene gets carried away while he is dancing. That is enough to kill an old boot like me! Eugene doesn't really mean to hurt me, but he is so stupid and clumsy. I'm really glad I'm a boot instead of a high classed Nike, or a stuck up Kaepa, because I get to live in my home on the range.

Hi! My name is Cynthia, but you can call me Cindy. I belong to Christine. Christine's dad made me. My size is six and one-half. I have brown baby shark bottoms and London tan Kangaroo tops. Everybody thinks that I'm beautiful. Christine hardly ever wears me, though. She just throws me in her closet and forgets about me. I've gotten to know her other shoes pretty well.

I was born at the Village Cobbler on July 2, 1984. The Village Cobbler is located at 509 West Tenth, Borger Texas. Christine's dad owns the Village Cobbler.

Well, I guess I will go for now. Talk to ya' later.

SUMMER

Coolin' Off

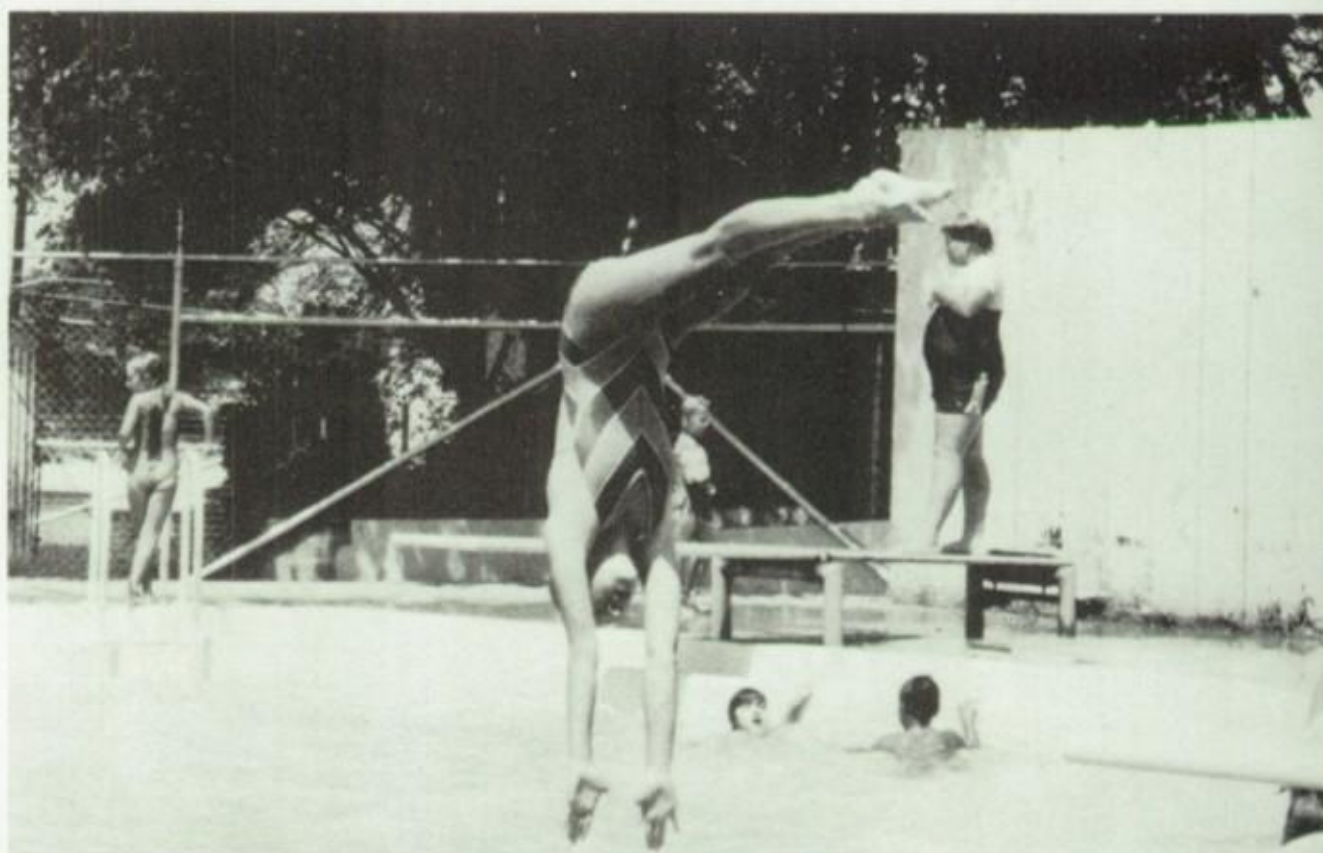

For many people, going to the swimming pool was the number one priority of the summer. At first touch the water is cold but after getting all the way in, it's hard to make yourself get out. If you like laughing, splashing, and lots of goofing off, then the swimming pool is your kind of place.

(below) Tom Johnson enjoyed his spot on the lifeguard stand.

Strolling Through the Fair

One of the highlights of the summer was the Phillips Free Fair sponsored by the Lions Club. There were plenty of games and thrilling rides.

There is something at the fair to make it enjoyable for people of all ages.

Steppin' Out

For those who had transportation, "Where do we go tonight?" was the main question for the day. For those who didn't, "I'm sick and tired of staying at home!" was the common distressed comment of this, yet another Friday night.

Somehow, everything usually ironed itself out. Finally, with hair in place, sparkling teeth, and breath that wasn't "mediciney" — out of the house and on the town!

Pushing It to the Limit

As the summer comes to a close football season is just starting with 2-A-Days. The boys push themselves to the limit as they get ready for the 84-85 football season.

Hawks Nest

Through all the long and cold football games, the Hawks Nest always managed to keep the dedicated fans happy by warming their tummies with coffee, hot chocolate, hot dogs, and B.B.Q. sandwiches. The Juniors who worked had to come early and stay late. The money they raised went to the Junior-Senior banquet which made it all seem worth while.

Below: Jack thinks eye contact will bring lots of business,

Walking Royalty

Homecoming was a night full of glamour and excitement. The excitement started with the pep rally and bon-fire that set our team and the whole school on fire. During the pep rally suspense was building with the soon crowning of the homecoming royalty.

Pep Rallies

What are pep rallies made of? — Football players, coaches, cheerleaders, faculty, students, and lots of spirit! The cheerleaders worked hard to organize the pep rallies and try to make them fun. The teachers contributed a lot to the skits and gave the student body many laughs. The purpose of the pep rallies was to get the football guys fired up for the game. And as far as that goes, everyone did a super job!!

Our Special Ed Class

This year at Phillips High we added a new class. It is our Special Ed. class. Coach Johnson was head of our Special class this year, after all it was named after him.

In the top left we try to let everyone get involved in the pep rallies, even the special people. Mrs. Sanders and some more of the "students" try to get everyone pepped up for the big game. In the top right Coach Prescott seemed to have forgotten what sex he is. In the middle left Mrs. McCall and Mrs. Wagner can't seem to understand what the man's saying. In the middle right Coach Johnson says, "Do I look like I have stupid written all over my face?" We think he does! In the bottom left this is Mr. Long's method of trying to get his students into class. In the bottom right some of our special people seem to be a little forgetful. In this case, Mr. Harris liked his Halloween costume so much that he forgot to take it off.

The Guy From Venus

Cast in order of appearance: Mrs. Mack — Terrie Bridges, Linda Stacey — April Roberts, Mrs. Ream — Lori Wessels, Don Starr — Bryan Moffitt, Jack Wilson — Michael Newcomb, Rolanda — Shana Smith, Marge — Stephenie Nichols, Harry — Scott Williams, Mr. Ramano — Tony Doyle, Mr. Stanton — Chad Woods, and Mr. Trimble — Dewane Kinsch.

Clerks and Customers: Donita Been, Shawna Heidleburg, ShaLynna Blankenship, Melinda Ralls, Joni Braymer, Karla Rawlins, Vicki Bush, Deanna Thompson, Mindy Carpenter, Michelle Traylor, Emily Doyle, Jody Trout, Dana Ellis, Lori Walesiak, Mary Fleetwood, Joella Woods, and Dusti Fondren.

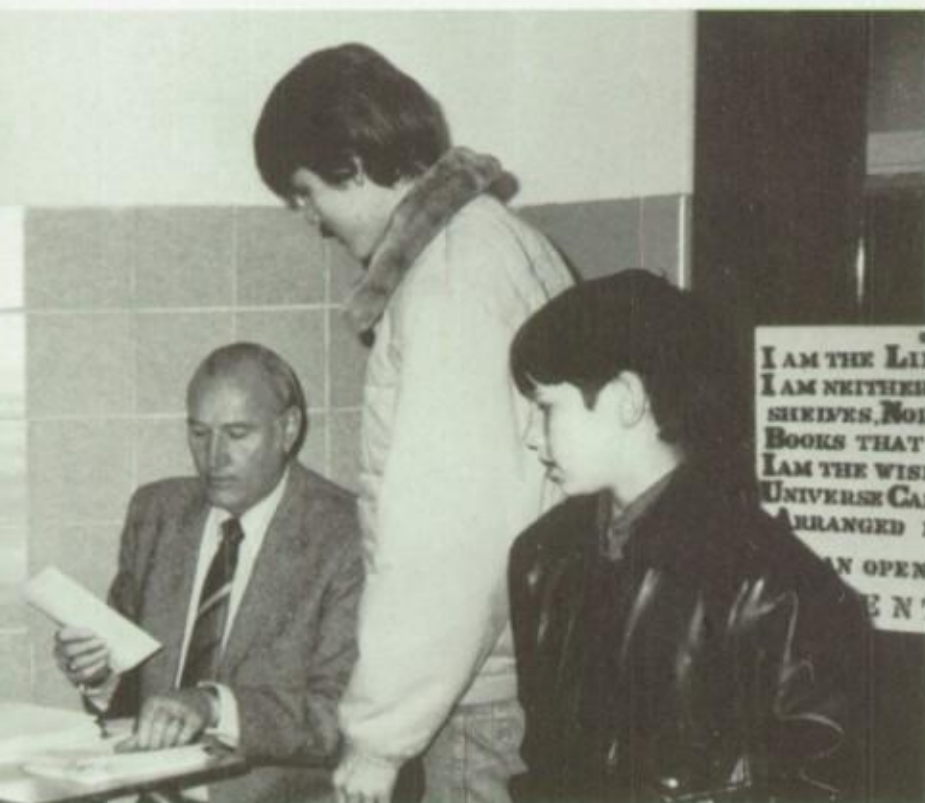

Fundraisers

This year, Phillips High participated in many fund raising activities.

The Choir performed a musical, "A Guy From Venus" and raised money by selling the tickets. The Band and Choir sold peanuts and worked in the concession stand during the Basketball games to earn some money.

The Spanish club, this year, made money by selling to the students lots of candy and pretty candles.

The Student Council raised lots of money and had many fund raising projects. They sold spirit ribbons during football season, they had their annual canned food drive for the Salvation Army, they sponsored the Kidney Foundation money drive, and they sold candy-grams on Valentines Day.

The Christmas Spirit

Christmas was a little different this year. It seemed that it was harder to get in the Christmas spirit, but everyone still tried their best. Since we weren't allowed to have Christmas parties, the halls were quiet right before we got out for the holidays. But everyone still had a good time.

Top Left: Jubal, Robin, and Jamie struggle with the worst part of decorating the tree.

Rex Young

Michelle Traylor

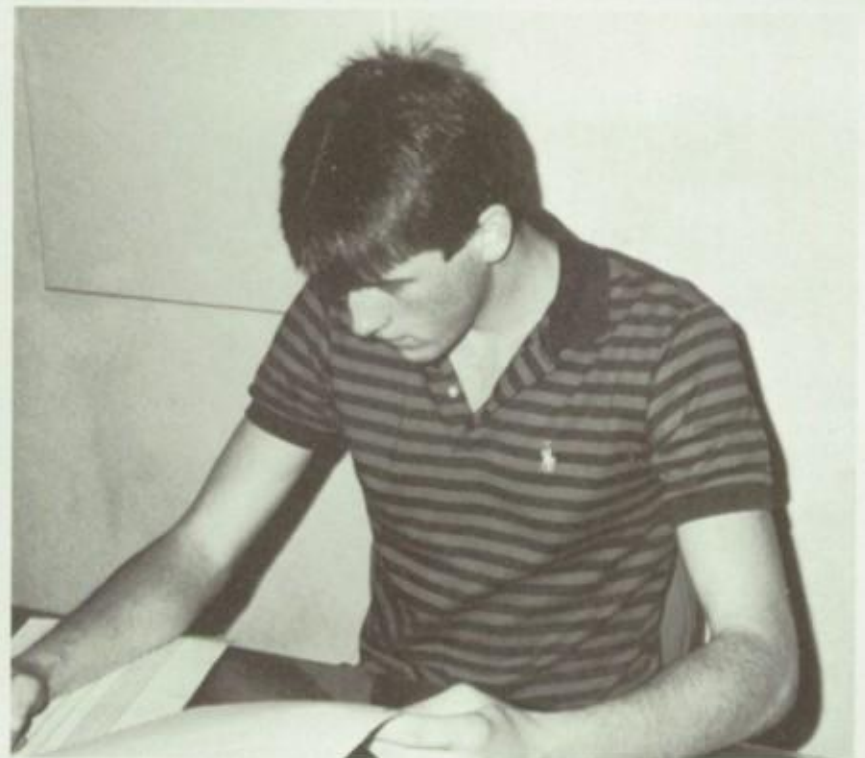

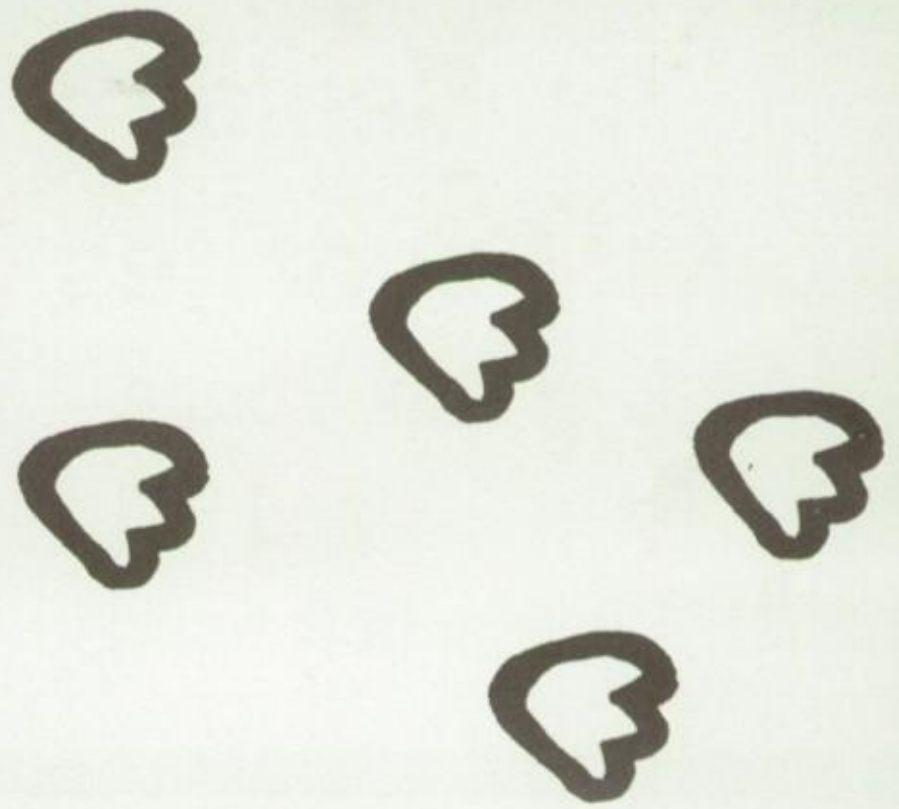

Mr. and Miss P.H.S. is the highest honor at Phillips High School. Candidates for this honor should be friendly, warm-hearted, have school spirit, be active in many school activities, have a good attitude, and should be very responsible. Michelle was secretary of student council, played varsity basketball, sang in the choir, and went to Regionals in Shorthand. Rex was president of student council, played varsity basketball, ran track, and played in the All-Star Game, 1985.

Boys' State and Jr. Rotarians

The basic purpose of Boys' State is to learn about our government and political system. About 900 boys from all across the state are chosen to assemble on the campus of U.T. at Austin the first week of June each year. Once there, the boys are divided into cities, counties, and districts which make up a mythical state. From there, every boy has an opportunity to run for any office he thinks he can achieve (ranging all the way from city clerk to governor). The whole thing takes a week and is a great social and learning experience.

It Takes More Than Talent

Hey, Hey you! Yeah, you kid. Down here in the locker. No, not the jock, the Adidas shoe. Buddy, where'd you get your brains from? I'm gonna tell you about the life of a football shoe.

My name is Right Shoe. I'm twelve, count 'em, twelve big inches long. Nobody, I mean nobody messes with me. It's a hard life being a shoe. Man, think of it; all those smelly socks being put in here. What a disgrace! You know what's worse, don't you? Yeah that's right, having a jock stuffed in your mouth. Talk about tasteless.

Hey, it ain't that bad kid. I get my share of glory. You know when my main muscle, the quarterback Tom, comes in and puts me on, stretches my strings, and ties my arms in knots, I know I'm not like those good for nothing Spot Built practice shoes. I get glory!

Man, where the quarterback wants to go, I'm the one who gets him there. If he didn't have me, that guy would fall flat on his back. Yeah, that's right. I'd make him look like a real jerk. What I like a lot, is stomping on fingers. You ought to hear them fingers scream! What I like best is crossing the goal line. That makes me proud.

Here comes the coach; get outta here! You're a real jerk talking to a shoe. No wonder they call you the class idiot!

Walking in Victory

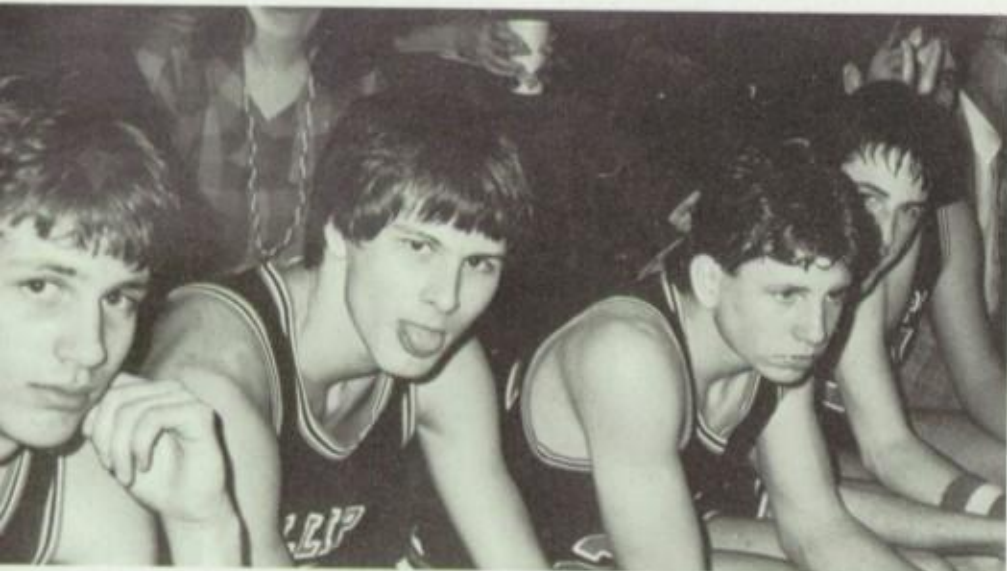

Hi! My name is Eugene. People call me "Eugene, Eugene, the clumsy machine," because I am big and clumsy. My owner is six foot nine and has a dark coloring to him. His hair is coal black and is real curly. And boy, do his feet stink! Thank goodness he wears that cotton thing over his feet. It saves me a little of the punishment. Every once in a while he is in a hurry and forgets to wear any socks; boy is it murder! I'm a size thirteen, and my width is a D. I play basketball with my owner all the time. I believe he lives at that gym sometimes.

My appearance is quite strange. I'm red and white and have a symbol on me which stands for Nike, I think. I'm taller than most shoes, I have a long neck.

I also have a big mouth which my owner sticks his stinky foot into. I'll tell you right now it doesn't taste too swift. I have white hair that is braided through little holes. My owner pulls and tugs on it when he is putting me on. Boy, that hurts. It makes me almost want to cry. But the worst part is when he puts something on my moustache. People call it velcro, but I call it true pain. When my owner gets through with this, it's all I can do to stop my crying. I don't mean to complain too much, because when ever he does good, I'm right in the spotlight with him. Of course, without me he wouldn't be such a hotshot.

Story by Stephenie Nichols

The 1984-85 Phillips Blackhawks continued their winning tradition this season, gaining the 1-AAA Bi-District Championship. Phillips found themselves in the area game with Gruver. The fans were backing them 100%. It seemed that luck was just not on our side, but those Blackhawks showed what they were made of by hustling to the very end. Even though we didn't make it any further, we were really proud of our Hawk's hard work and determination.

J.V. Team of the Future

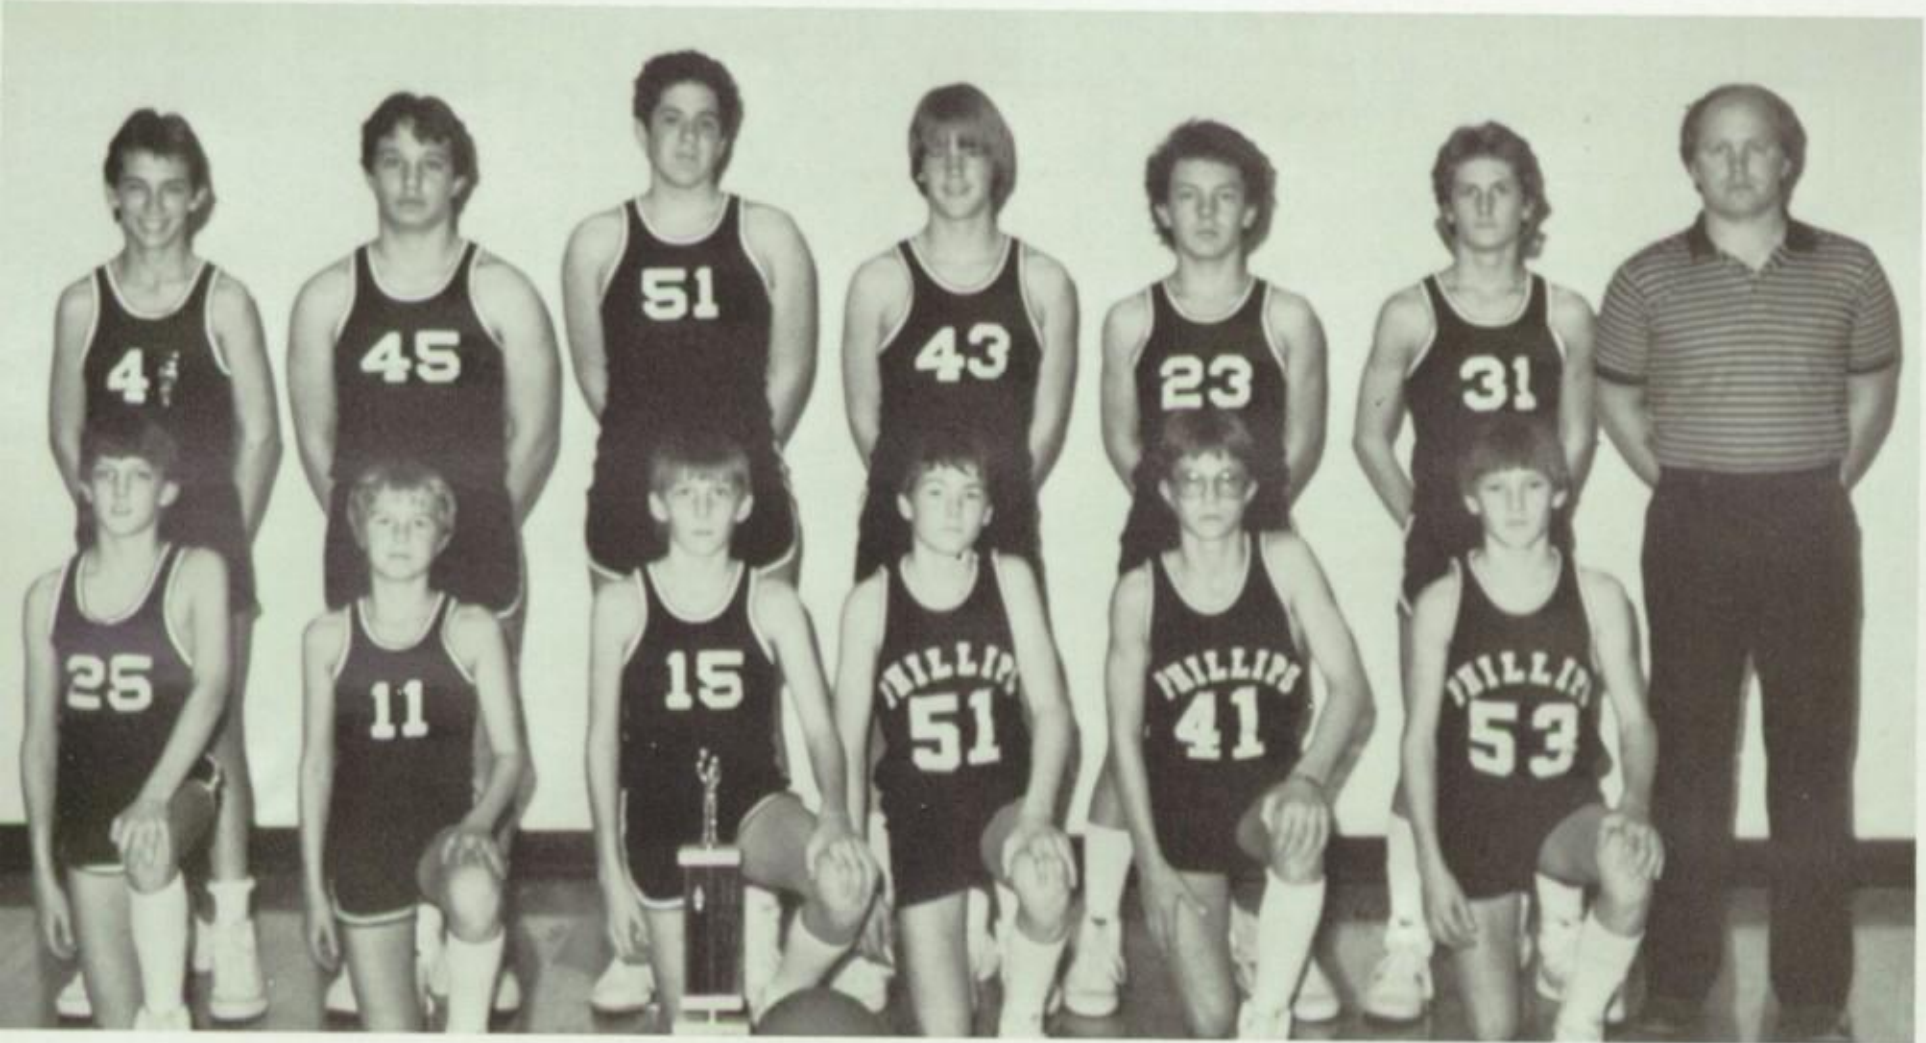

The J.V. guys weren't quite as successful. They were always out there giving it their all, but it always seemed luck just wasn't with them. The hard workouts and sweat they poured out just didn't seem to be enough. Just hang in there and the hard work will pay off. Keep that #1 Blackhawk spirit up, and our J. V. will become our future Varsity state champs.

Standing, starting at left, is: Joe Savoie, J. J. Williams, Jack Gerrard, David Savoie, Chad Woods, Troy Jones, Jeff Griffin, David Scroggins

It's Not the Size of

The Varsity Hawkettes were lacking in height this year, but they made up for it in their drive and determination to come out on top. They came very close to winning district but it seemed we just couldn't get it together. With just a little more work and determination we may just clench the district title next year. We are really proud of our Hawkettes, and we're backing you a 100%.

the Hawk That Counts

The J. V. girls had a streak of bad luck. It was really a time for learning and new experiences. They were always out there fighting to the very end and never let their defeats get them down. The next game they were right back out there giving it their all. They had one real good win this year. It was against Fritch in the Phillips tournament. They beat them by one point. We were really proud of them for that one. Just hang in there girls, your luck will change for you.

Tennis Is a "Love" Game

Hi, my name is Ted the Tennis Shoe. My owner is a Tennis player. Tennis playing can be fun while I "glide" my owner across the court. Yet, it has its pitfalls. Have you ever bounced on your back for three hours? I have a cousin named Harold the Hightop. He's a basketball player's shoe and boy does he stink! He stinks so bad that a dog once used him as a fire hydrant. Now that's getting pretty bad. He's been treated badly. He's even been run over by a car. That's just too abusive for me. If you'd like to stop shoe abuse, please send your contributions in c.o. Paul Murphy at 215 Inverness, Borger, Texas. Your donations will be appreciated. Trust him.

The 1985 varsity tennis team (top row, l to r) — Paul Murphy, Daren Taylor, Lorne Moffitt, Rex Young. (bottom row, l to r) — Shane Peery, Robin Homer, Jeff Hart.

The doubles teams were Paul and Daren, and Rex and Lorne. The singles players were Jeff, Shane, and Robin. The zone tennis meet was at the Borger High School tennis courts.

Two's Company

The junior high tennis team was very small this year. The team consisted of Cory Lynch and Chuck Harris. Cory and Chuck played singles. The tennis season didn't last very long. The only meet they went to was the district meet.

The best thing about having junior high tennis is that when they get into high school they will be that much better. Keep up the practice, and do a good job next year.

Hello, my name is Henry. I lead a very exciting life. Every afternoon my owner, Jerry, takes me out of my locker and puts me on. He takes me out running on this round thing called a track. Jerry is what you would call a long distance runner. My favorite part of the day is when Jerry practices the high jump. It's a great feeling to be flying through the air. My twin brother, Harry, is always complaining about everything and the only time he stops when Jerry does the high jump. For Harry it's always too hot or too cold. I'm surprised that Jerry hasn't traded us in because when Harry gets tired he gets mean and lets his laces loose. Jerry has tripped over Harry's laces and fallen down a couple of times. At least Jerry doesn't jump into that sandpit, I heard that was the worst thing that could happen to a shoe. Well, it's back to the races.

Meet the Swingers

Hi — My name is Tito, I'm a golf shoe. My life is a blast. I get to live outside, well almost, that's where I spend most of my time. My owner is Greg. He's an excellent golfer. He carries me out to Phillips Golf Course with the rest of his equipment then slips me on at the club house. We play at least eighteen holes everyday and sometimes more. So as you can imagine, I get plenty of exercise because Greg always walks and never drives a cart. But I don't mind a bit, I love every minute of it!

English?

English classes this year were a little tougher with all of the new education laws passed by the Texas legislature, but we all seemed to make it through with no difficulty.

Math and Science

The Math and Science classes teach a wide scale of things from simplified problems to the most complex formulas.

Middle Right: Paul Murphy and Scott Williams get right to work in their Trig class while Michael Newcomb has to think about it a minute.

Bottom Right: Michelle Boyd and Stephen Been just can't wait to start learning their Biology.

History and Gov't

Coach Lemley and his Government class made the Senior's year just a little bit more exciting. The thrill of learning the history and making of their Government made it a little easier to get through the year.

Coach Johnson and his History class was a little bit of a different story. The Sophomores found it a bore to have to learn history one more year. Thank goodness this was their last year for Special Ed's class!!

Business Classes

The kids always enjoy a new experience. Mrs. Cox's business courses are always a new experience. It's always a good feeling to know you're learning something that will help you get a good job in the future. This is what Mrs. Cox strives for, to get her students prepared for the future.

Arts and Crafts

The Arts and Crafts classes consisted of lots of hard work and lots of originality.

Woodshop

Dust in the air, the loud noise of machines, students busy on their projects, and Coach Prescott lending a hand; is a usual scene out in the Woodshop classes. Students learn the basics of woodworking and then they can take Construction Processing and learn a little bit more. Woodshop could be very useful and fun, that is, if you don't mind getting a little dirty.

ORGANIZ

Behind the Scenes

Seems like magic, but it isn't. Through a lot of hard work and a lot of dedication, the yearbook is completed.

What many people don't realize is all the hard work that goes into making a yearbook. The pictures must be taken by the photographers either during school hours or after hours, when the photographer gives up some free time to cover an event. Once the photos are printed certain ones are chosen and then cropped, to fit into a page design. Finally, copy and captions and headlines are written.

In the beginning, planning stages, the layout of the book is discussed. New staffers are taught the "tricks of the trade." Once ads are sold, the work begins in earnest. Deadlines begin to approach and are generally met. When everything is done, and sent off to the publisher, we can sit back and hope we didn't forget anything.

Even though the yearbook staff isn't very big, it's strong. The staff takes pride in its work and hope you enjoy it. Through their hard work, you can look back and remember all the good times at P.H.S.!

Looks That Kill

Clocks were turned back and the fashions of today were also the fashions of students' parents and grandparents. Oxford shirts, plaid pants, bobby socks, and cuffed straight legs which were popular among the teenagers of the '50s, were also worn.

Baggies, argyle socks and french braids were more common in the '40s. Though fashion ideas were taken from way back when, there were also new ideas of the '80s. Those sexy slit skirts, blazers and to be a little more feminine, colorful ribbons to tie around the collar were worn.

"I think the styles are better now because the style is to be yourself," senior Lori Wessels said.

Everything that was worn wasn't always liked. Guys had a tendency to tease the girls who wore icicle shoes, more commonly known as "jelly" shoes. Even though the majority of the guys didn't like them they still gave a fresh cool sensation to the hot summer weather.

"My favorite style is straight legs because they make you look like you have a cuter shape and because I have trouble finding other clothes since I am small," senior Karla Rawlins said.

A sporty look was reached by a pull-over sweater with a little man sewn or needle-pointed on. Novelty pins brought a touch of class to anything from a shirt and a pair of jeans, to the most exciting tweed blazer.

To warm things up when the weather got cool, the girls wore those very flattering fluorescent sweat shirts.

"My main problem about getting clothes is the price. They are way too expensive," senior April Roberts said.

Some guys fell back into the western look. Cowboy boots, hats and belts with big buckles were matched with a plaid shirt and a pair of jeans and a T-shirt. For a slightly dressed up feeling there were corduroys and a comfortable sweater.

Although the people make the styles, the styles can make the person.

Let's Eat!

Another week had started and away we went with the same old routine.

Monday: We were having Corn chip pie in the lunch room, which really didn't thrill me. So we went to Allsup's for a quick burrito and a coke which cost me around $1.81.

Tuesday: We took a fast look at the menu for the lunch room and they were having Chalupas. It's much cheaper and since we were all broke we decided to eat there. It only costs us $1.10.

Wednesday: We got out early for lunch, so we all cruised to Borger to check out the high school. We didn't want to waste time eating so we just grabbed a coke from Burger King. It costs us 80 cents.

Thursday: We were sick of the same ol' places. So we went to Mr. Gattis, and ate off the smorgasbord. We split the costs and it cost us each $3.00.

Friday: We were having hamburgers in the lunch room. My friends and I were not very hungry so we walked to the Quick Stop for a large 70-cent coke.

Oh dear! this week I've spent $7.51 on food. Next week I'll go on a diet!

Hawk Faces

There are all kinds of faces here at PHS. There are funny faces, sad faces, ugly faces and pretty faces. But, no matter what kind of faces there are, they are Hawk Faces.

Hittin' the Slopes

Once again the Seniors were "Hittin' the Slopes" on their Spring break. They stayed at The Pagosa Lodge in Pagosa Springs. They were up bright and early every morning ready to hit the slopes. After a hard day of skiing everybody went back to the lodge and relaxed in the sauna and whirlpool. Some of them just went to the game room and played pool and foosball. By Thursday everybody was tired and sore, but came home with a little reluctance. Everybody had a great time just being together.

Jr.-Sr. Banquet and Prom

"Night Life" was this year's theme for the Jr.-Sr. Banquet and Prom. With everything decorated in black and silver, the whole night seemed like a fairy tale. The girls were dressed in their stunning formals and the guys in their sharp tuxedos. It was really a night to remember!

Hawk Highlights

The Athletic Banquet is kind of like the icing on the cake for the athletes. Everyone, from the coaches to the participants, gets together for the evening, for a good meal and a good time.

(extreme right) Mindy Carpenter, (not pictured) and Michael Newcomb were honored as the Track Sweetheart and Beau.

School Song

Oh! the Orange and the Black over all,
 May they Rise to the Skies, never fall.
 May we look to thee for our light,
 And the colors for which we fight.
 Oh! ye students of old P.H.S.
 The school that is always the best,
 We've stood every trial, every test.
 To Phillips High, We sing our praises forever!

Finale

MAY 24 was a date that marked the beginning of the end of a special phase of the seniors' lives. Childhood was behind us and adolescence was drawing to a close. Adulthood was beckoning us to follow, and the roads it opened were many.

Our high school years were a collage of relationships; we met people, we made friends, we went out, we fell in love, and then sometimes, all of a sudden, it was over. We changed. But sometimes it was more than that. We formed lasting bonds with teachers and friends that lasted long after our high school years. We shared each other's joys and sorrows, success and failures, highs and lows. And through it all, we kept on caring.
